*The number of complaints in this table is higher than the total number above as there may be more than one allegation in a single complaint. The table represents the number of complaints in which the associated allegation is listed.

Abuse of Authority – excessive use of force, or an instruction to do something which the person making the complaint believes was beyond the garda's authority to instruct, are the main types of allegation categorised as 'abuse of authority'.

Discourtesy – complaints around how a garda spoke to or behaved towards a person.

*Neglect of Duty – allegations that a garda failed to take an action that could have been reasonably expected – such as returning a phone call at one end of the scale, or properly investigating an alleged serious crime at the other end of the scale - would be typical examples of 'neglect of duty'.

Non-Fatal Offences – these are allegations of a criminal offence listed in the Non-Fatal Offences Against the Person Act 1997 and include, for example, assault.
